

THE YEOMAN

Making our lists and checking them twice, for Pennsic of course, while we enjoy the tastes of summer...

*Newsletter of the Barony of Bright Hills,
Kingdom of Atlantia
July 2010, Anno Societatus XLV*

From the Baroness...

Greetings to all in the Barony!

May was a busy month with the event season in full swing. July looks to be a bit calmer before Pennsic rolls in. It's a hot summer this year so please remember to keep up your fluids and don't forget to eat. I know when we are all out doing what we like best it's easy to miss but you'll have more fun when you feel well.

Don't forget - We only nag because we care.

I'd like to remind the barony that if you would like to be considered as a candidate for the next Bright Hills baronage you need to have your letters of intent to Lady Faye, our chronicler, NO LATER than August 15. They will then be published in the September Yeoman. It would be really good if you could also send her a photo of yourselves to be included.

Your letters of intent should include things any introductory letter would have, but not be limited to,
Your SCA and modern names

What area do you live in

How long have you been in the SCA

What other offices/jobs etc have you done in the SCA

What are your other SCA interests

Why would you like to be our next baronage

What could you bring to the position

This letter will help us as a barony and the Crown make the tough choice of the many fine candidates. I encourage you to make it known that you want to be considered for our baronage. Not campaigning per se, but be sure folks can place a face with a name. You may know who you are but does anyone else?

PENNSIC:

I will once again be hosted by House Wulfshaven at block N32 at Pennsic this year. I will not be holding a formal baronial court this year but may be doing individual camp visits. Notes and messages may be left there if you need to reach me.

The Children's Fete is Wednesday, August 11, from 1-4 in the barn. Bright Hills is sponsoring a coloring station this year. Please consider volunteering for an hour or longer to give our youngest SCAdians a wonderful time.

Atlantian Court has been changed to Thursday Evening, August 12. There will also be a reception/party afterwards This means we can all enjoy court AND Midnight Madness shopping on Wednesday evening!

take care, fight well, and most of all have fun!

Baronial Progress:

August - 15 - Pennsic War

September 3-5 - Tournament of the Golden Rose

September 11-12 - Riverfest Demo

September 18 - Storvik Baronial Birthday and Investiture

yours,

Mistress Martelle von Charlottenburg, OL

Baroness of Bright Hills

Bright Hills Business Meeting Minutes June 20, 2010

The following gentles were in attendance:

Mistress Jeanne Tenneur de Bec, Lady Yseulte Trevelyn, Alexander Fowler, Chagan Khulan Baghsi, Bernie England, Lord Graham MacRobert, Lady Katarzyna Witkowska, Lady Livia di Samuele, Lord Cairell mac Cormiac, Lady Wynne ferch Rhodri ap Hwyell, Lady Faye de Trees, Misty

I. Officer reports:

A. Chatelaine: The request for (re) warrenting has been mailed. I should be official again, soon. Lots of new and new to our group folks have been showing up at Friday night practice. Chagan Khulan, Bagshi has scheduled a number of a&s classes on garb and the very important "SCA camping, hints and helps".

B. Chronicler: Everything moving along as usual, the next issue will be slimmer as summer distracts us all

C. Exchequer: Went to University and submitted reports, waiting for response from kingdom exchequer for unevent, made last deposit for fighter practice

D. Herald: 150 shields made by kids at Steppingstone, 1 consult last consult night, trip to incipient canton, 3 consults helping to get names and etc together, unable to make consult night this last Friday, another on July 2nd and 16th, request for $11.78 to reimburse for demo supplies, passed

E. Marshalls:

1. Heavy: Some new fighters showing up to Friday nights for training. Ballista team is coming together hopefully ready for Pennsic.

2. Archery: During the last month, we have been working with 2 new adult archers and 2 new children. The parents of the new children want to learn as well. We have shot royal rounds including a Tuesday practice session. On Saturday, June 19, our targets will be used by Storvik Novice to supplement their own. The Steward's form was given to the Autocrat. Janyn Fletcher is the new Kingdom Emergency DEM for target archery. Godai Katsunaga (Gordon Kinnie) will be our new deputy target archery marshall for the Barony.

3. Equestrian: Lady Nem is being processed as new kingdom equestrian marshall and Swieczka as Northern area deputy

F. MOAS-

June has proven to be a busy month for A & S, I'm proud to report. Not only have we held a number of classes but Bright Hills has "upped the ante" by sponsoring and helping develop an Incipient Canton, provisionally called The Green Lion Canton (we hope that passes) and helping them ease into their new SCA life.

EVENTS and DEMOS: No Events or Demos this month. The annual Magnolia Middle school demo was cancelled by the school. Hopefully we will return next year.

CLASSES:

May 29th - Seven members of the Barony, Mistress Jeanne Tenneur de Bec, Mistress Cordelia fitzRobert of York, Baroness Martelle von Charlottenburg, Chagan Khulan, Baghsi, Baron Temur of the Kerait, Lady Wynne ferch Rhodri ap Hwyell and Lady Katarzyna Nowina Witkowska gathered up books, gear and archery supplies and headed east to Turner's Landing Park in Betterton, MD. Here we gathered with the new folks from the (to be) Green Lion Canton. We spent the whole day teaching some of the basic background and aspects of life in the SCA - being an officer, a class on rank, titles and recognition of same, a class on feast, feasting and feast gear with some talk on period foods, A discussion of garb and period-appropriate fabrics, general A & S topics, a class on heraldry, some discussion of things martial and a series of sessions covering target archery, arrow and bow inspection, setting up and archery list and shooting. I believe they actually shot several Royal Rounds. This was the first of what I hope will be an on-going series of days covering various aspects of the SCA and its areas of interest. The Green Lion folks were 12 or 13 in number who came to watch and learn and ask questions. We had a pot luck lunch and the weather was marvelous! I look forward to returning. There was talk of holding a garb making day in the near future. Look for me to start asking for folks who are willing to help with this. Have sewing machines, will travel.

June 4th - A TWO-FER! We held the last (for the Summer) Dance session and 6 lively folk danced their way through the evening led by Lady Faye de Trees. Meanwhile, over in the corner Mistress Sigrid Briandsdottir taught a two level class in Nalbinding. Two of the students were beginners and the other 4 were more advanced and were learning new stitches for their Nalbinding projects. Based on some random eavesdropping the class was very well received and we were delighted to have Mistress Sigrid join us for the evening.

June 18th - Camping 101 for the Newly Pennsic Bound. Had only one student but we had a lively chat.

A Bardic Challenge! Milady Caillech, Baronial Bard challenged members of the Barony to step up and tell a story of Chivalry and chivalry deeds done. Looks like the tourney season is hurting A & S all over. One entrant only.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS of NOTE:

H. Webminister: The webminister has nothing new to report. I've made all requested updates to the site and will hopefully be adding some new stuff this month.

I. Seneshal: Quiet month, mostly signing papers and waiting patiently to move on checkbook, August 20th deadline for letters of intent for baronage to CHronicler, Kingdom was aksing for donations to rent a pavillion for Pennsic but the Barony has offered our tent which will be used as the kingdom tent on the battlefield, overall we have werll supported the kingdom and our neighbors

J. Baroness: No report at the moment

Camping Like a SCAdian (a.k.a.; Your Pennsic Survival Guide)

The simple joys of camping take on new aspects when you go camping at an SCA event. I hope this “survival guide” helps you find a happy balance between how you camp, what you can manage to pack, haul and afford and what you picture for your camping needs.

Modern camping is usually an attempt to “get away from it all”. Normally this means heading someplace with a tent, sleeping bags, cooler, Coleman stove and lantern. The family takes their outdoor activity stuff, a first aid kit and looks forward to such bucolic past times as fishing, hiking, swimming, hunting, etc. This varies with the folks camping and how many kids they have with them.

SCA camping attempts to reproduce a style of camping which is not so much camping as having a portable household. Unless you were a Gypsy or a nomad of some sort, the people of the Medieval period did not really camp – they journeyed, went on pilgrimages or went to war. A Medieval camper was actually a person on the march with portable living quarters. Consequently, in attempting to copy that aspect we find the ‘average SCA camper’ can very easily become Omar the Overburdened when setting up camp. So, to make your attempt at recreating your portable home at SCA events you may want to consider a three stage plan. What to take to day events, to short camping events and to Pennsic. These are minimum suggested lists based on many years of SCA camping. The following lists are only equipment. We’ll touch on the personal items and the ‘let’s make it more period’ items later on.

Day Events; A day shade, chair, folding table, cooler, feast gear, covers for any “mundane” items such as aluminum folding chairs.

Overnight Events; All of the above plus a tent, sleeping bag/cot/bed, light source, tote or box for additional clothing and (maybe) bed linens.

Extended Events; All of the above plus additional chairs, coolers, drying rack, portable kitchen gear and something to hang your garb on.

And those are the bare bones. Let’s look at fleshing out these lists.

Making it Period looking;

Most folks start out with a modern tent and a chair and a cooler. Somewhere along the way they find that they want to be more Medieval looking within their encampment. PLEASE – don’t go overboard on this till you’re sure this is really, really what you want as a hobby. I say this simply because it is very easy to spend thousands of dollars to achieve the right ‘look’. You can achieve a less expensive look that will still be quite presentable if you approach it right. Herewith – some examples;

Day shade – get one of the “pop-up” 10 x 10’s, add dagging around the edge of the roof and cover the legs with a draped cloth to look like you’ve pulled back the sides of a tent. Put down a cheap fake oriental carpet. Cover your folding aluminum chairs, coolers and other modern items with cloth covers. Put out the serving feast gear – metal, wood or pottery plates, cups, bowls, pitcher and munchies.

Campsite – Add a tiki torch or two for night lighting. Cover or put out of sight anything really modern looking. Put your armor stand out front and put your armor on it.

The sort of things that add ‘color’ and are also useful are such things as candle lanterns, baskets with your projects in them, dishes or trays with fruit and snacks on them, a friendly greyhound (if pets are permitted), a banner or flag displaying your arms or the arms of your group. This is only the beginning of a long list of things seen in day shades and pavilions in the Knowne World. Your imagination is what will limit you – as well as your finances.

Getting it There and Back Again;

The most important consideration – besides finances - when acquiring SCA gear is how you’ll get it to the events. Do not assume that Joe will haul it for you – he may not always go to the events you go to. Try to plan your purchases as if your vehicle is the only one that will ever carry your things. “A Trailer” you say, why, yes – but can your vehicle pull a trailer and do you know how to pull a trailer. Many of the smaller, economic to fuel vehicles are not built to pull a trailer. Check the owner’s manual before spending money on a trailer you won’t be able to use.

Going “Whole Hog”;

Assuming you have decided that the SCA is your natural environment and wanting to put your best foot forward here are some things to consider owning for your encampment plus some approximate costs:

A pavilion - $300.00 to $3000.00

A camp bed - $ 25.00 to $500.00

A period chair - $ 25.00 to $500.00

A chandelier for your pavilion - $10.00 to $75.00

A rug – “Free to good home” to $100.00

Accent items - $$$$$????? Prices vary

A sheepskin - $40.00 to $400.00

A table - $10.00 to $250.00

Banners or hangings – highly variable prices....

.....and the list goes on....

Can't I make it myself?

Of course you can! Once again – do consider what you'll need to actually create a piece of wooden furniture or a pavilion or whatever it is that you want.. Do you have the right tools for the job? Do you have the space to do the work in? Will it actually be cheaper to make it rather than purchasing it? Do you have the TIME to make the item?

Camping with other SCAdians;

There are certain courtesies inherent to SCA camping. The majority of the time folks camp with their group, household or some sort of unit. This is especially true at Pennsic. When you are with a group you may have a ‘food plan’, camp fees, basic camp rules and duties. Do ask what these things might be or if they apply in your group's camp before you decide if you want to camp with this group or not. Some groups prefer to be kid-free or have specific interests. Some camps want everyone to have specific types of gear – such as a Viking camp or a Mongol camp. Realize that in most cases the ‘period pavilions’ will get the choicer ground.

When at an event such as Pennsic do not just wander into a camp unannounced or uninvited. This is akin to walking into someone's home uninvited. There is usually a gate guard or someone sitting in camp that you can speak to first.

Know which camps to avoid. The SCA, like any large organization, has its less appealing groups. One mans joy is another's horror. Ask around, talk to the old-timers, and don't believe everything you hear but do check out any stories that concern you. The SCA is as bad about gossip as any group. Our grapevine is old, venerable and fast moving.

Some Precautions;

We have always made it a point to insist that the ladies in our camp go out in groups after dark rather than alone.

We have always recommended that when party hopping our folks should take their own mug or goblet and drink only from it.

Similarly, we suggest that if they don't recognize the beverage or like the looks, smell or anything about it – don't drink it.

If you have any health concerns – specific medications, allergies, etc., make sure one or more others in your camp know what to do and where your medication is.

If you're going out – tell someone. That way they'll know you went walking rather than disappeared into the lake.

Mother Nature is fickle. For extended camping we suggest you take a set of garb, a set of bedding/linens and some clean dry socks and put them in a plastic bag (water-proof container) and leave them in your car. If the worst happens you'll still have one set of clean, dry clothes to wear.

Check the weather before you go – you may bless the big, bulky cloak you ‘wasted space’ packing when the temperatures drop at night. Many people don't realize that the temperature in a major city is usually 5 to 20 degrees warmer than many of the camps and parks where we hold SCA events.

Mom's “Ratty Old Envelope” plan. When traveling to a camping event make a note of all your travel expenses – gas, food, tolls, a candy bar, etc. When you get on site at your event total up the amount and put that much cash and a credit card in a 'ratty old envelope'. Leave the R.O.E. tucked away in the car and DO NOT touch it till you are leaving the site. This is MOST important at Pennsic as it is incredibly easy to spend everything in your wallet and max out a credit card or two. With the R.O.E. in place you at least have enough money to get home on.

Don't carry a lot of cash. No explanation needed here. Traveler's Checks or credit cards are accepted by most merchants.

Do "test drive" anything new before you head for the event. Make sure the new tent really does have all the poles and pegs and that you can set it up in the dark. It seems to be a tradition that folks at SCA events frequently set up in the dark. Try on the garb, sit in the chair, put the bed together and sleep in it. You won't necessarily find ALL the flaws but you'll avoid most of them.

Recommended things to have on site when camping;

A clean camp is a happy camp. Pennsic has one ugly aspect that raises its bilious head every few years. The "Pennsic Plague" is best described as a combination of the flu and Montezuma's revenge. Most generally it starts in dirty camps. Thus the following list includes things which help you avoid the Pennsic Plague.

Fresh, clean water

Bleach – for the dish washing

Trash bags – taken out of camp daily

Anti-bacterial soap

Shower shoes – you don't know where those thousands of other feet have been.

Sun screen

A broad brimmed hat

Extra clean dry socks – just ask anyone who was at Atlantia's 20th Year event

A 'good' first aid kit

Comfortable walking shoes

Extra batteries for lanterns and flashlights

Your medic-alert tag if you have one – and WEAR the darned thing!

A fire extinguisher (Required for each tent at Pennsic)

Water-tight / water-proof containers for clothing and linens

Ice- keep your coolers iced down regularly

Stuff to keep the kids busy

Zip-lock bags – to keep things like matches dry or really grungy stuff away from the clean clothes.

Your own camping potty (my favorite piece of camping equipment)

** A note of import. Pennsic soil is insidious. It contains a lot of iron and it stains EVERYTHING. When washing anything after Pennsic DO NOT use any stain removers, pre wash treatments or other extra laundry chemicals. Any of these will 'set' the stain. Just wash the clothes in laundry soap and water – after one or two washings the Pennsic mud will most likely go away.

In Conclusion;

The lists included are in no way complete or comprehensive but they are a starting point for planning. All of the above can be summed up in one sentence – Use Common Sense and Assume Nothing. Camping SCA style is more work than modern camping but it is also much more comfortable. The tall, canvas pavilions are warmer and cooler than nylon tents and they breathe nicely. Rolling out of bed in the morning, wiggling your toes in a sheepskin and sitting down to watch the activities of the day or strapping on your armor and going off to fight is easier than wiggling around in a cramped, low roofed tent looking for your garb that got stuffed under a sleeping bag somewhere. However, it's also more work, takes more carrying capacity in your vehicle and makes some folks wonder why we don't just camp in a room at the Hilton.
